This past weekend I had a very enjoyable visit with Betty Toepfer. It was very educational and enlightning pertaining to our hobby. We did a little trading too. Again I have seen many brands that until now I never knew of. Some of which we'll mention; White Swan, Afro-Kola, Bond Street, Feel Free, Chocasoda, Coles, Esquire, Oasis (trim soda), Freshie, Fruit Beer by R C ,Thinny-thin-thin, Jefferson Club, Plenty Good, and others. Betty has agreed to furnish us with an article periodically. Her first is in this issue.

Ken Simon has offered us some very good suggestions and ideas which we will use in our future issues. Thank You Ken, for your interest.

God Bless All, Fred Bogdan

HOW DO YOU FIND POP CANS ? WHERE DO YOU LOOK FOR POP CANS ?

These questions have been asked hundreds of times , especially by newer collectors. We will try to help you.

As you travel , check the rest areas along the highways they prove to be most productive . So what if you look in trash cans and people point and laugh at you . If you explain to these travelers what it is you're after you might be surprised that by your explanation they may even give you a few cans from their vehicles . I have some really neat cans from this type of hunting .Also many Flea Markets have cans for sale , reasonably priced . Still another tremendous source for unusual cans have been the "Ethenic" stores . By this I mean the Italian ,Greek , Jewish , Mexican , etc . Many unusual cans have been added to my collection in this way . Now dont forget to check the supermarkets as you travel . There are many private labels available , such as Kohls , National , Yukon , Yummy ,IGA , and so many others depending which geographic area you are in .

One of the greatest sources for pop can finds have been the Liquor stores . Check especially the coolers where single cans are sold , understandably , liquor stores do not sell many single cans of pop . Oftimes the new cans are put up front on the shelves with the older cans just pushed back continually , sometimes the cans will fall backward off the shelves so check the bottom of the cooler also . I have found several 10 year old cans on the bottom of beer coolers .

There are many beer can collectors that have aquired pop cans along with their beers , most times they are more than happy to dispose of them very reasonably . I have aquired some great pop cans from my many beer can collecting friends .

Good Luck and Good Hunting

THE POP CAN MAN

One thing I forgot to mention , before you start ransacking a store , ask permission from the owner or the employee , again explaing what you are after .

NEW----CANS

From Elmer Oehlke of Weyauwega, Wis.; Wisconsin Bottling Co. of Waupaca has just added another can to its list. Its called "Moonshine", green in color, displaying the moon in yellow. This now makes their total 9 regular and 6 diets. MADE BY TING

From John Hopp of New York, news of "Passover" cans;
Pepsi with For"Passover" printed above computer code.
Coke, both 12oz & 8oz with Hebrew "For Passover" printed along side of these alum. cans.

Fresca, Hebrew letters "For Passover" under name on face of can.

Tab, Hebrew letters along side of "T" in Tab.

R.C. & Diet-Rite, printed on lid, "Kosher for Passover, DR. J H Ralbjaj."

Dr Pepper and sugar free both have "Pareve " above (K) at bottom of design.

This is 2nd year for Passover cans in the New York area (1976 & 1978), none in 1977

New Dr Brown cans, ginger ale in plain can , black cherry has picture of 3rd Avenue cream has Statue of Liberty, cel-ray shows scene of Brooklyn Bridge.

A completly new label for Elf diet root beer , from Hopkins, Minnesota.

From Ray Scott of St. Louis, Mo.: 8 oz Shasta now available in 5 flavors, cola, grape root beer, lemon-lime, and orange.

Coke has a new can that promotes " The Great Aluminum Trade." The can goes on to say " The Great Aluminum Trade is a program to help organized boys' and girls' athletic teams to get equipment for their sport." The can has a $ sign on it, also pictures of Coke, Sprite, Tab, Fresca, and Mr Pibb cans on it. It also says Cayseys Sporting Goods and KXOK 63 (a St. Louis radio station.) On the bottom it says "Listen To KXOK 63 for details."

Dennis Fewless of Delavan Wisc. reports 2 different varities of the new Shasta diet cola, with different colored rainbow and hazard warning.

I just went to the supermarket today and seen a new Shasta cola, aluminum, basic white can with 2 or 3 shades of blue.

From Ray Scott again, Coke Hockey cans (9)

Gary Unger, Red Berenson, Larry Patey, Claude LaRose, Bernie Frederko, Rod Seiling, Rick Bourbonnais, Brian Sutter, and Bruce Affleck. These cans tell the number, height weight, position, birthdate, and hobbies of all the players.

Please get in touch with the newsletter. The letter was unsigned and had no return address.

A REBUTTAL :

This excerpt taken from a letter sent by E J Ritter ; I wish to contradict the article about Texas pop cans, I got my Texas cans in Ft. Worth, also seen them in Dallas and all along the way between Ft. Worth and El Paso.

CONE TOPS

In my hundreds of letters over the past two years, the interest in cones seems to be so great. The most asked question not only in my mail but when I go to shows or meet people is " WHERE DO YOU GET OR FIND CONE TOPS? "

Well some cones are found at the Flea Markets, others at Antique Shows or Beer Can Shows. Some people dig in the dumps for them.

Cone tops at one time were made throughout different sections of the country, but because of their impracticality they were on the market only a very short time and not all the companies made them. So naturally they are very scarce.

Some of the brands we know of in cones are;

C & C, Canada Dry, Dr. Pepper, Coke (very rare), Regal, Pepsi, Ma's , Bala Club, Dads, Donald Duck, Clicquoit Club, Queen-O, Twang, Booths, Franks, Tip Top, and Jic Jac. I have also seen several Canadian cones.

To the best of my knowledge cones were made in quart sizes, 12oz , 9oz, and 6oz sizes

If you have any other sizes or brands , please share them with us, we will joyfully pass along any information.

Happy Collecting
